

Tracks

Jason Ohler © 1989

Assume we follow the tracks moving northwards
looking for home, and fall into a gravelly canyon deep, but full of earth.

Would we not expect it to be a wind carved furrow upon the craggy cheek of an Indian?